

DUCK, DUCK, CHICKENS?

Chickens and ducks do more than just lay eggs, they help care for the land, too! Their manure is packed with important nutrients like nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium that enrich the soil and help plants grow strong and healthy. These birds also provide natural pest control by eating insects and weeds that can damage crops. By raising chickens and ducks, farmers and gardeners can grow healthier plants while supporting more sustainable, earth-friendly practices.

For more information, visit: bit.ly/AgDay26